Jake Clark

B. 1985 · Australia

Jake Clark is a sculptor, ceramicist, and painter whose work examines our relationship to contemporary culture and iconography.

Clark's work is rich in historic and artistic references, from Grecian urns and funerary vessels to the work of artists such as David Hockney and Keith Haring. Taking inspiration from the world around him, Clark's work captures the current moment through its interpretation of signs, product branding, and logos.

His visual sources extend to supermarkets, restaurant menus, advertisements and visuals such as a street signs and local businesses.
